SPEECH FOR THE FIRST DAY OF SCHOOL

Dear children,

Here and today for the first time you sit at those hard desks, you are arranged by height or in alphabetical order. Some of you turn uneasily in their seats, others sit motionless, third can't stop laughing. You may feel a bit timid. Family with hesitation led you here; you are left into the hands of the state. For you, life starts following the clock and it actually ends life. However, let me give you some advice because I've never forgotten, and will hardly ever forget what was in my soul, when I first crossed the threshold of the school, and how my heart ached then. And here's the most important advice you should put in your head and you should keep it, like the ancient wisdom of an ancient memorial:

Do not let them destroy your childhood!

Do not assume the teacher's desk for a throne or pulpit!

Show consideration for those who comply with you!

From time to time do not trust your books!

Do not be very diligent!

Do not laugh at fools!

Erich Kastner

Presentation of the book "What is love?"

On September 26th, in the school gym was held a meeting for students and parents of our school with the authors of essays in the book "What Is Love?". The meeting was attended by the Deputy Mayor of Plovdiv, Mr. George Tityukov, mayor of Central Region - Ms. Rayna Petrova, with whose assistance the book was issued. The compilers Nikolaj Draginov and Darina Kukeva shared their idea that students from all schools in Plovdiv to help students from the Home for Children Deprived of Parental Care "Maria Louisa" by getting involved with their thoughts and ideas about love, shared in the collection of essays, "What is love? "

Heart touching story of love was told by Ms. Eliana Shtereva. After that students from 4th grade sang a song to greet the guests and awarded with loud applause the young writers who read their works.

At the end of the meeting, Mrs. Zdravka Petrova, the pedagogical advisor, handed over to Mrs. Kukeva, director of the House, the purchased funds from the books in our school, and Mr. Angelov, the headmaster, wished success to the authors and compilers and closed the meeting with the motto of the book:

"To love means not to receive, but to give. The love we give is the only love that remains to us! "

Being a first grader - it is not a joke

The school first-graders meet many new things - a new role, a new place, new people, new rules - everything is so new that their little hearts start beating fast. This is stressful for both the child and the parents. But as adults, we have our ways of dealing with stress, while our children do not know how. And we, the parents, are the ones who can help them. All children are different. No matter what your child's temperament, it will feel more secure and calm, if prepared in advance. It is extremely important to create a positive attitude in the child to school even before the first class. Do not scare him with the school, teacher, or learning rules that await him there. Let friends and new games, interesting books and notebooks, fun and interesting lessons be your arguments to convince the little child that in school memorable experiences await him or her and that it is great to be a pupil. Include the child in some activities in preparation for the school: shopping for clothes and supplies, binding, sharpening pencils, arranging the desk and backpack. Let them feel personally involved and emotionally tied to his new role.

If you notice something strange and unusual, do not neglect the problem. Demonstrate understanding. The child will need straight talk, to share emotions and anxieties. It is good if Mum or Dad tell him about their own concerns and problems when they were small children. First grader would know that what he feels is normal and that many other children and adults feel the same. When the child feels your understanding and support, he will feel more secure and coping.

Good luck in all new endeavours and adventures, dear pupils!

With lots of love and patience be there and support them, dear parents!

1st October – World Music Day

World Music Day (International Music Day) was established on 1st October 1976 by UNESCO. In 1980 on the occasion of the 700th anniversary of the birth of John Koukouzeles, October 1st was declared a holiday of the Bulgarian musicians and singers.

Music and people - this is a story that dates back thousands of years in human history. Rock paintings of extinct tribes have preserved to the present day, which depict people with musical instruments. We will never be able to hear the music, but the paintings are brought to us and we know that early in their history, people have enjoyed and grieved, have expressed their feelings through music. Few people can remain indifferent to good music - it has great power. Many composers have tried to express through it their thoughts, feelings and emotions. As Tchaikovsky had said: "Music begins where words end".

The holiday is celebrated every year around the world with great concert programs with the best artists. On this day we can hear works which have come into the treasury of world music.

4th October – World Animal Day

World Animal Day is celebrated each year on October the 4th. It started in Florence, Italy in 1931 at a convention of ecologists. On this day, animal life in all its forms is celebrated, and special events are planned on locations all over the globe. The 4th of October was originally chosen for World Animal Day because it is the feast day of Francis of Assisi, a nature lover and patron saint of animals and the environment.

Bulgaria has a law on the protection of animals. The European Commission intends to develop a strategy for animal welfare and yet examples of cruelty and irresponsibility are more common in everyday life than those others, well and truly humane. Streets and sidewalks, we are sharing with those stray dogs and cats. And we do not always coexist peacefully. To look after an animal, to take a pet is a great responsibility and if people realize that and are willing to help, then the problem of stray dogs and cats won't exist anymore.

Let's take our responsibility to those who become our loyal and dedicated companions and answer worthily to the love and faithfulness we receive. Let us show compassion and give love - each and every day, so there is no need for protection associations, for animal asylums and debates. Simply wish it and the first step is made! Are we ready to start?

5th October – World Teachers' Day

World Teachers' Day, held annually on October 5th since 1994, commemorates teachers' organizations worldwide. Its aim is to mobilise support for teachers and to ensure that the needs of future generations will continue to be met by teachers. According to UNESCO, World Teachers' Day represents a significant token of the awareness, understanding and appreciation displayed for the vital contribution that teachers make to education and development.

Few people know how important October 5th is for the public. This day is dedicated to all teachers in the world. Have you ever thought how difficult it is to give knowledge to children who you do not know, and how hard it is to teach them how to use it? Well, maybe that's why not everyone was born to do this job, but we have to respect teachers because all scientists, politicians, etc. have passed through the classrooms. So on this day I wish all of you former and current teachers, health and longevity, love and gratitude to have the strength to keep transmit science, art and faith to future generations.

CONGRATULATORY ADDRESS

To teachers and school managers in "Aleko Konstantinov" Primary school, Plovdiv

Dear teachers,

Congratulations on the occasion of the International Teachers' Day - October 5th.

Since ancient times teachers give knowledge to people, awaken the good in people, sparked dreams of young people.

It is our honor and privilege to welcome you and sincerely wish you much health and joy.

Preserving the traditions, you still keep maintaining innovative ideas in education. Be as committed to your noble profession because you create with love from every Bulgarian child a personality. Keep in your hearts the goodness and enthusiasm with which for many years you have educated students.

With gratitude: Martina Garabedian class 7a
